

The UNG IRB Position Dealing with Existing Data Sets

Existing Data Sets: Option 1

De-identified data - whether publicly available or accessible through data use agreements - do not constitute human subjects research as defined at 45 CFR 46.102. UNLESS a project merges multiple data sets and in so doing enables the identification of individuals, the project . Many studies utilize data made available through large data consolidation bureaus and consortiums. Here is a list of data holders whose archives include publicly available, de-identified data.

1. Inter-

4. description of data security and access procedures to be implemented (including any requirements required by the data holder.

References

• The Common Rule 45 CFR 46: